1920s fashion design The 1920s in fashion saw a modernisation. It continued the change from more restrictive fashions of the Victorian and Edwardian period towards looser clothing which revealed more of the arms and legs, which had begun at least a decade prior with the rising of hemlines to the ankle and the movement from the S-bend corset to the columnar silhouette of the 1910s.

1920s fashion design When Lane Bryant opened its doors in the early 1900s, the term for its plus size clientele was "stout." Whatever term they used, their business model was a success because by 1916 their sales were over $1 million a year. The fact that the founder, Lena Himmelstein Bryant, and her husband, Albert Malsin, bothered to take the time to actually research body sizes no doubt helped the company ...

1920s fashion design The 1940s was unique in that it brought a diverse selection of women's fabrics and patterns to the mainstream. Because of this, it can be difficult to distinguish what is a 1940s print compared to a print from another decade, simply because there were so many designs, styles and colors.
